In his last letter to his wife before his death in 1920, Dr. George Ernest Morrison intimated that the proper resting place for his voluminous collection of papers was the Mitchell Library, Sydney. So in accordance with his wishes, his widow, Mrs. Jennie Wark Morrison, stated that the papers were to be entrusted to a suitable literary man for editing and if no suitable editor were found, they were to be placed in the Mitchell Library and restricted to the public for twenty-five years.

By 1925 J.B. Capper had edited two volumes of Morrison's Reminiscences and Diaries for publication, but they were not published, and in 1946 Ian Morrison, the eldest son of Dr. Morrison, agreed that the time had come for his father's papers to be transferred to the Mitchell Library, stipulating at the same time that he and his brothers should be consulted and should approve of any prospective editor or biographer who wished to use the papers. It was not until 1963 that the author, Mr. Cyril Pearl and the sinologist, Dr. Lo Hui-min were given the necessary permission by the Trustees of the Library in conjunction with the Morrison brothers. Mr. Pearl's biography, Morrison of Peking, was published in 1967 and the first volume of Dr. Lo's The Correspondence of G.E. Morrison, 1895-1912, was published in 1976.

The papers were sorted and catalogued in the Library by Mrs. Sybil Blanton of the Manuscripts Section, who also compiled the index.
